

HANZA Electronics Årjäng is one of Scandinavia's major producers of electronic products. The production is certainly an important part of our overall offering - but far from everything. We see ourselves more as an industrialization partner. Regardless of the size and nature of our mission the goal is long-term cooperation. HANZA Electronics Årjäng have all the expertise gathered under one roof, we are a so-called Proximity Unit and we operate in many respects as a small business. Something that allows us to give our customers the best of both worlds. The small company's short decision paths, proximity to production with the flexibility and total control over costs and quality. While you will have access to the large company's security and resources.
